MANCHESTER

A golden past, a golden future.

Walk the streets of Manchester in the magical early morning sunlight and the sense of history, of achievement, of wisdom, of lives well lived, is all about you.

From the Northern Quarter's imposing red brick monuments to cotton commerce, to a steel and stone celebrations of the Industrial Revolution, to the epic of sport, culture, and dreams that are Old Trafford, Eastlands,

The Albert Hall, The Whitworth. A living legacy.

But despite Manchester's heritage, its celebrated past, not for one moment does she feel like a city living in the past. Manchester is very much a city of the present. A city of now. Of the future too.

All eyes are on Manchester.

Living City

Manchester's recent transformation has proven little short of heroic. A modern urban revolution, as bold and as impressive as anything achieved during her world famous Industrial Revolution. Once a case study in northern decline the city is now flourishing like never before. A stunning re-invention as a vibrant modern metropolis.

From the Opera House and Royal College of Music highlighting the musical aspect of the city to the Trafford Centre and Arndale mall for shopping, Manchester is truly a living city.

Connected City

Every great city relies on a great communications infrastructure. Manchester's a blend of state of the art tram system, convenient motorway and rail connectivity along with a hugely successful international airport. Significant investment is planned city-wide, investment that will define Manchester's transport system as the UK's leading urban transport network.

US investment firm Baron Capital has acquired 24% of Manchester United.

Abu Dhabi United Group, which owns Manchester City football club, has committed £1 billion to invest in Manchester properties development.

Beijing Construction Engineering Group (BCEG) has participated in the £800 million Airport City development.

Hong Kong based property investment firm, The Peterson Group, will inject over £300 million to reinvent the Great Northern Warehouse in the city centre.

A truly international city with 22,000 immigrants making new lives in the city each year little wonder that demand for housing continues to exceed supply.

Little surprise too that Manchester is also attracting so much foreign investment.
Or so many visitors!

Interior Designer: Pipa Hubman

Looking good. Living Well.

Style. Taste. An attractive, comfortable living space.

At the heart of each One Regent apartment is a beautiful design. A beautifully, practically designed interior from celebrated British design studio Hjem.

Hand picked for their innovative, cultured eye the Hjem team, lead by Pip Hobman, has quickly become the leading name in quality apartment finishings, furnishings and design. A formidable reputation for quality that extends across both Manchester and the North West.

We're extremely proud to have Pip and Hjem as part of the One Regent team. Take one look at their designs and you will soon see why. Exquisit.

Castlefield

Take a short 5 minute walk from One Regent, along the Bridgewater Canal towpath and you will find yourself in the heart of beautiful Castlefield. Handsome and assured in many ways Castlefield encapsulates the essence of Manchester over time. From the 1st Century Roman fort, home to 500 Roman soldiers guarding the old road between Chester and York to the cobbles, arches and railway viaducts of her mighty industrial past, to chic new bars and restaurants.

Now one of Manchester's most fashionable neighbourhoods, Castlefield is enriched with fascinating museums, artists studios, performance spaces and a bustling commercial business area. A living, breathing microcosm of Manchester as a whole. An enchanting gateway through which to discover the rest of the city, to Deansgate, to Spinningfield, to First Street.

Canal: Castlefield has a rich history with the canal boat trades.

Castlefield... The Spirit of Manchester

Deansgate & Spinningfields

On the edge of Castlefield, by Deansgate Station, sits the Deansgate Locks, inevitably popular with throngs of weekend revelers. Nestled under the iron railway bridge this boozier sells an enticing range of ales including brews from local beer heroes Marble. If you're feeling flush, the Hilton's Cloud 23 on the 23rd floor of Beetham Tower serves cocktails with an admittedly unparalleled view.

Tucked between Castlefield and Deansgate is one of the city centre's newest large-scale developments, the high-end retail and office hub called Spinningfields. This is where global corporations have their HQs and Spinningfields' main shopping street, The Avenue, is stuffed with exclusive boutiques including Flannels, Mulberry and Emporio Armani. Spinningfields is also home to 16th-century hop kiln turned pub The Oast House, which has an impressive selection of beers and an attendant, fire-warmed teepee in the frosty months.

Life: Manchester excels as a city of fun, life & culture.

First Street

A modern fusion of cultural, creative, business, retail and leisure uses, First Street, just a short distance from One Regent represents all that is ambitious, all that is passionate, all that is successful about Manchester's meteoric renaissance.

The £500 million development served by the newly refurbished Deansgate Tram Station, and home to 'Home', Manchester's new £25 million arts complex, First Street has quickly become the number one destination for Manchester's many independent arts, cinema and theatre fans.

As the First Street Twitter bio says - 'a destination of local national and international significance. A new breeding ground for artistic and business endeavour.' And with more than 1 million visitors to the area over the last year, an incredibly popular destination.

Northern Quarter & China Town

Northern Quarter & China Town

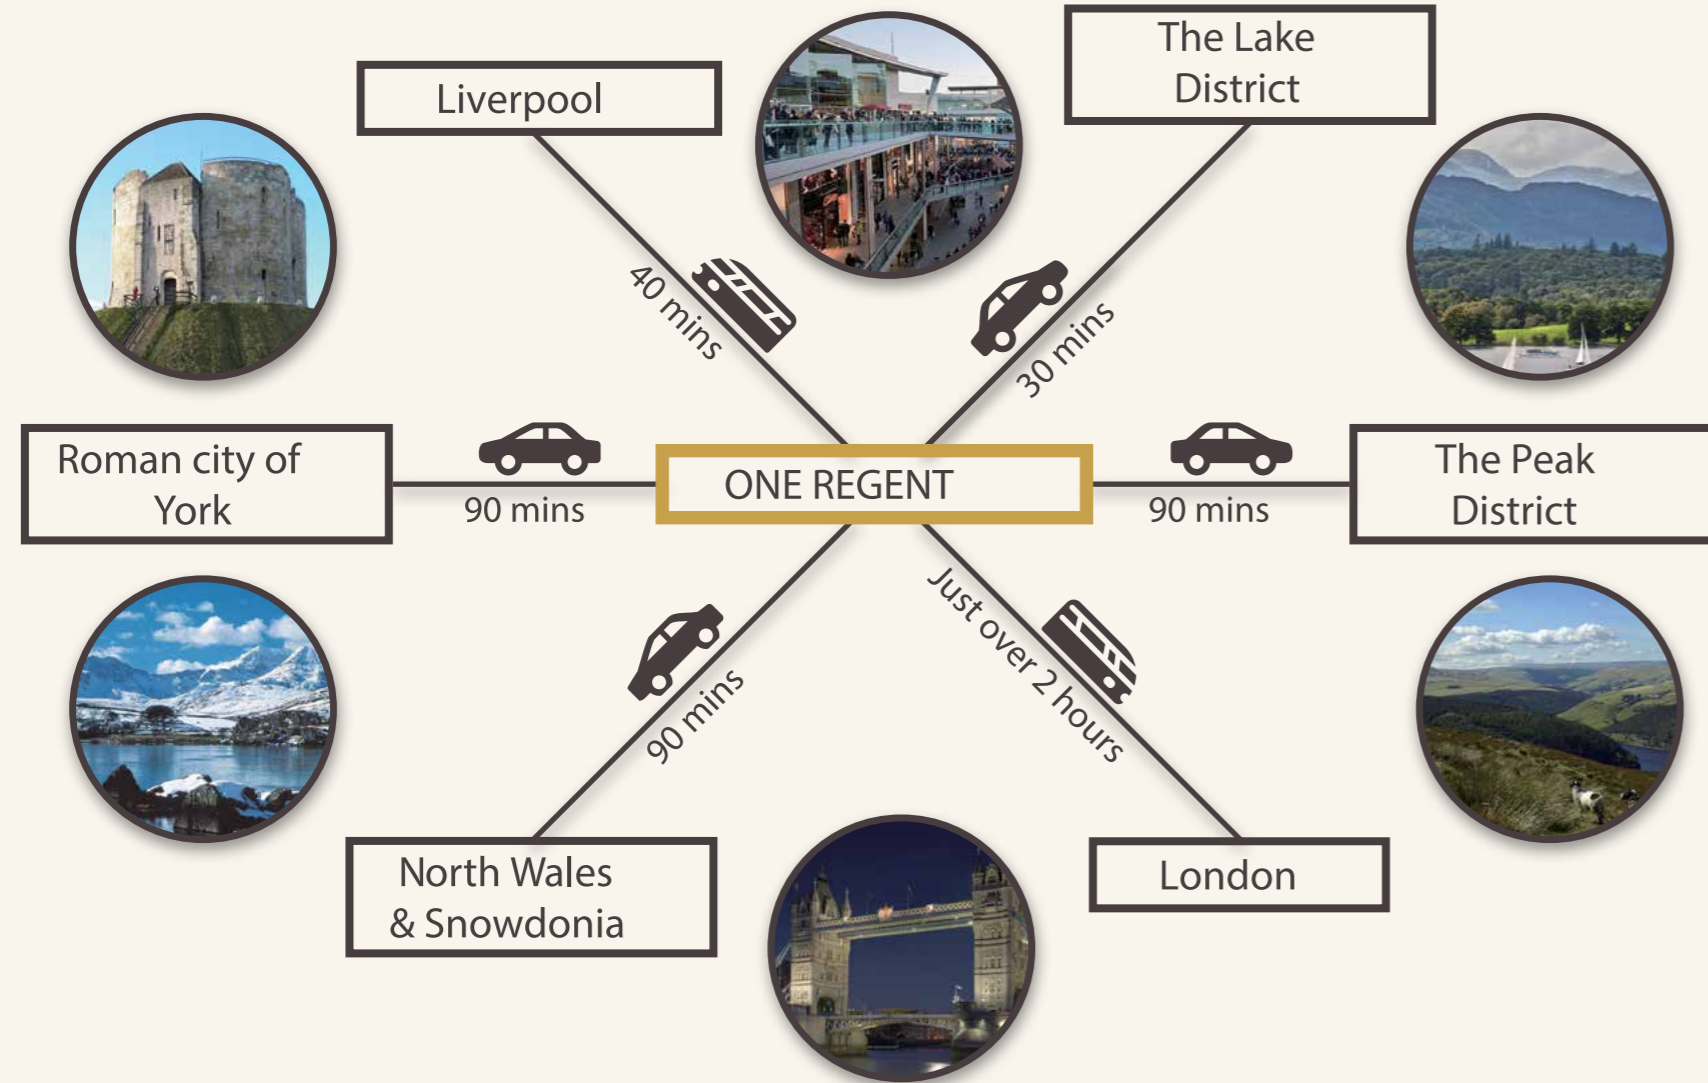

Centrally located just to the south of Piccadilly Gardens, the second largest in the UK and the third largest in Europe there's a spirit to Manchester's Chinatown, an energy, that sets this popular cultural enclave apart. An area bustling with Chinese and Southeast Asian restaurants, bakeries and supermarkets Chinatown is a joy.

Just to the north of Piccadilly Gardens is Manchester's ultra cool Northern Quarter. Home to the latest, trendiest, bars, clubs, restaurants and beards the Northern Quarter is Manchester's boho heaven - skinny latte cafes rubbing bony shoulders with pre-loved clothes stores, record shops and experimental drinking and dining dens.

And more...

Ideally located Manchester is only a short distance away from some of the UK's most beautiful countryside and popular destinations.
